WEATHER

Scattered showers and warmer temperatures are expected today with the high temperature reading in the 80's.

JAMES RESTON

It's a noisy world, not because problems aren't being faced, but because they're being faced more directly.

Top Of The Morning

WEATHER

Partly cloudy skies and warmer temperatures are forecast today with occasional scattered showers expected in the afternoon and evening. The high temperature reading will be near 83 degrees with the overnight low in the low 60s. The extended forecast for Saturday through Wednesday indicates temperatures will average near normal with high readings in the upper 70s and low 80s and night time low readings in the low 60s. Only minor day to day temperature changes are expected with some shower activity on Saturday or Sunday and again about Wednesday. Winds today will be southerly 10 to 15 mph. Thursday's 7 a.m. report: high 83; low 48; there was no precipitation recorded. The river level was 3.1 feet and falling.

KINZUA DAM REPORT

Pool level 1324.19 feet (desired summer pool level 1328 feet; maximum 1365 feet). Outflow temperature 70 degrees. Upper reservoir 73 degrees. The reading at the Warren gauge 3.12 feet.

14 Cuban Refugees Land in Fla. Aboard Crop-Dusting Plane

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A Cuban crop-dusting pilot flew his single-engine, Russian-made aircraft to Florida Thursday, bringing with him 13 other persons who braved the wave-top flight across the Florida Straits to flee Cuba. The plane reeked of fumes identified by authorities as parathion, an insecticide, when it landed at Homestead Airport 25 miles south of Miami.

"We broke out some of the windows of the plane so we could stand the fumes," said Mrs. Mercedes Dodge, 54, a naturalized U.S. citizen and the former wife of a U.S. Navy officer. Her 21-month-old granddaughter, Kendra Carcasses, was hospitalized in Miami for observation. The others aboard the plane were given medical attention at Freedom Gate, the refugee port of entry in Miami.

"Quite a few got sick from the fumes," Mrs. Dodge said. Angel Ricardo, a 26-year-old pilot for the Cuban government, said he flew at low altitudes on the 200-mile trip from Varadero, Cuba, to avoid radar detection. He told authorities the plane at times struck high waves in the Florida Straits, the 90-mile wide strip of water separating the two countries.

"We flew two to three meters (6 to 10 feet) above the water," Mrs. Dodge told newsmen after she underwent several hours of questioning by U.S. officials.

"We saw no aircraft, Cuban or American, on the way," she said. The passengers aboard the yellow biplane included her daughter, Patricia, and son-in-law Jesus Carcasses. Mrs. Dodge said they made the trip because Patricia, a U.S. citizen who was born in Astoria, Ore., wants to live in this country after spending 10 years in Cuba.

The refugees said that all except the pilot hid in a sugar cane field Wednesday night and boarded the plane when Ricardo was preparing to start a scheduled crop-dusting flight.

McCarthy Names Choices For Cabinet Posts

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy presented a list of 20 names Thursday and said they were "the kind of men I'd like to have in my cabinet." The names included: Secretary of State—Sen. W. J. Fulbright, D-Ark.; Sen. Thorton B. Morton, R-Ky., or Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky.

Secretary of the Treasury—Thomas B. Watson, head of International Business Machines; Daniel J. Cook, an East Coast businessman; or Frank Stanton, president of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Secretary of Commerce—William Clay Ford of the Ford Motor Co., or Carl E. Sanders, former Democratic governor of Georgia.

Secretary of Housing and Urban Affairs—Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York; or Democratic Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey.

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare—Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers; or Mitchell I. Ginsberg, New York City administrator of human resources.

Attorney General—David Lindsay, brother of Republican Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York.

Secretary of Agriculture—Sen. James B. Pearson, R-Kans.

Postmaster General—Patrick J. Lucey Jr., former Democratic lieutenant governor of Wisconsin.

Secretary of Defense—John Gardner, former secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Secretary of Labor—Rep. John J. Conyers, Jr., D-Mich.

Secretary of Transportation—Howard Johnson, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Secretary of Interior—Democratic Gov. Philip H. Hoff of Vermont; or James Whitaker, a noted outdoorsman and mountain climber.

McCarthy also listed Mrs. Martin Luther King, Jr. as the type of person he would like to have as ambassador to the United Nations.

Clark Clifford Says Safety for Americans Is Key to Bomb Halt

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford made plain Thursday that the key to a full bombing halt over North Vietnam is some guarantee of safety for Americans stationed near enemy territory.

Clifford also told a news conference the administration still awaits a "clear signal" from Hanoi that the current lull in fighting may represent a change in attitude.

Lacking this, or some indirect sign that would give the lull more significance, Clifford said the United States assumes on the basis of intelligence information that a third major offensive is in the works.

There have been rumors President Johnson might stop all bombing of the north as the Democratic National Convention gets under way, but Clifford's comments seemed to scotch that idea in the absence of some move by the other side.

Clifford said President Johnson decided March 31 to continue bombing North Vietnam's narrow southern panhandle because to stop then would jeopardize U.S. forces just below the demilitarized zone.

"I think that reason still holds," he said.

"I believe the President feels strongly that if (the bombing) should be carried on until we get some kind of arrangement.

"What he has in mind is, if he gives up the bombing of even this limited part of North Vietnam, he does not want to do it at the expense of the lives of the men that we have in northern I Corps (the South Vietnamese region adjacent to North Vietnam)," Clifford said.

"So if the time will come when the North Vietnamese will say, 'we understand this, and if you give up all the bombing we will agree through this course of action not to place these men in greater jeopardy,' then the President and they have made an agreement.

"I think it constitutes a reasonable and logical approach." On the other hand, Clifford also said the administration is not considering going back to full-scale bombing of North Vietnam despite the apparent stalemate in the Paris peace talks.

"Fortunately, there is still sufficient hope and optimism regarding a negotiated resolution that I know that (full bombing) has not been given consideration in the last few days," he stated.

Allies Uncover Viet Cong Arms-Making Complex

SAIGON (AP)—In operations to upset a new enemy of the South Vietnamese, Allied troops uncovered a Viet Cong arms-making complex in the Mekong Delta, the U.S. Command reported Thursday. More weapons were found nearby in abandoned fortifications pounded by eight-engine B52s.

U.S. reconnaissance planes spotted the Viet Cong complex Wednesday 73 miles southwest of Saigon. U.S. helicopters landed South Vietnamese troops who found a booby trap plant, two metal shops and a blacksmith shop.

Searching through the buildings, they found 4,800 hand grenades and 400 grenade molds, a large stock of ammunition-making and construction material and stores of metal.

Nearby other South Vietnamese worked through an area where B52s raids Tuesday touched off large explosions. They found fortifications, bunkers and 48 sampans destroyed by the bombing. They killed 18 enemy soldiers, the U.S. Command said.

U.S. military officials credit the sweeps around Saigon and the heavy B52 raids with disrupting the timetable for an offensive against South Vietnamese cities that the enemy has vowed to launch.

In the only action reported Thursday, troops of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division killed three Viet Cong they flushed from tunnels near Saigon. Three other Viet Cong were killed by helicopter gunships.

Nigerian Commandos Occupy Village 10 Miles South of Aba

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—Nigerian commandos pushing toward Aba, Biafra's largest remaining town, have occupied a village 10 miles south of it, informed sources said Thursday.

However, other elements of Col. Benjamin Adekunle's 3rd Marine Commando Division were reported running into stiff opposition five miles to the east on another road to Aba, the communications and administrative center of the secessionist regime.

Coupled with the military activity was another Nigerian rejection of proposals to fly relief supplies to the starving in the besieged rebel section of eastern Nigeria. The military government insisted supplies must go in by land.

Usually reliable sources said Adekunle, at a meeting in Lagos with other military leaders, urged that troops guarding the northern line in Biafra be sent into action to relieve the pressure on his drive from Port Harcourt in the south.

Two commando columns reached the Ino River Wednesday in the northward push, which could be the start of an all-out offensive in the 13-month-old civil war.

The fighting stepped up as peace talks lagged at Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

Diplomatic sources in the Ethiopian capital said Emperor Haile Selassie has called on Nigeria to declare a unilateral cease-fire and invited the heads of both Nigeria and Biafra to a face-to-face meeting there Monday.

Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon,

Nigeria's chief of state, was expected to meet with his advisers to discuss the Nigerian response.

Lt. Col. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu, Biafra's chief of state, announced last week that Biafra was willing to observe a truce during the peace parley.

24-Hour Protest Strike Shuts Down Uruguay

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)—Thousands of mourners marched slowly Thursday past the body of a student killed in antigovernment riots. Uruguay was all but stalled by a 24-hour general strike called in sympathy with the students.

In the line of mourners, throngs of workers, many in work clothes and carrying small bouquets of flowers, passed through the main building of National University in downtown Montevideo where the body of the student, Liber Arce, 29, lay in state.

Arce died Wednesday of a bullet wound suffered in rioting Monday. Students say police killed him.

Police were pulled back to five blocks from the university to avoid clashes. The army reinforced its guard around Government House and other important points in Montevideo.

Student riots broke out last Friday after police raided the university seeking clues to the abduction by a pro-Peking group of Ulises Pereira Reverbel, a close adviser of President Jorge Pacheco Areco. Pereira was released Sunday.

The student riots raged on through Tuesday. Students were protesting what they called police brutality, and the government's hard line toward labor and student unrest in this inflation-ridden country.

On learning of Arce's death, the 400,000-member National Convention of Labor called a national 24-hour strike in defiance of a government ban on walk-outs.

Most government offices, factories, stores and shops were closed. Public transportation was nearly at a standstill. No newspapers were published.

Garden Apartment Complex Approved by County Planners

By BETTY RICE

"The Commons," garden apartments to be constructed by Harris Homes of Erie in Pleasant township, gained approval from the Warren County planning commission Thursday night with the understanding that certain provisions in plans be incorporated in plans for the 56-unit, two bedroom luxury facilities.

It was generally understood that the developers, George and Michael Harris, would guarantee a proposed front wall screening as well as enlarge parking space areas to meet the county zoning ordinance 10 by 20 foot requirements; gain a variance on the size of side yards on either side of the apartment buildings and provide an adequate visual screening (probably shrubbery or some form of vegetation in a five foot buffer zone planned in the project).

Preliminary approval to the Harris Homes proposal was accorded at the July 18 meeting of the planning commission. The apartment complex, which is to have a resident (local manager) will be located off Highland avenue and Duncan boulevard. Local or area contractors will be hired with an estimated total payroll of $900,000 anticipated.

Harris Homes has already built apartments in Erie and Titusville and it is expected construction in Pleasant township will begin after Labor Day with first units ready for occupancy in late spring or early summer of next year.

Supervisors in Pleasant township reviewed the apartment complex plans Tuesday and, according to planning director William Rusin, are apparently satisfied with the proposal with the exception of possible traffic congestion in the area. The complex will embrace in excess of 48,000 square feet.

Planners were advised that a committee had reviewed some 15 applications for the position of zoning enforcement officer, a post left open upon the resignation of Frank L. Iseman Jr., of 2 Walker ave., Warren. After screening, two names will be submitted to the county commissioners for their consideration. Both men came highly recommended and appeared to be highly qualified. Barney Roberti, Matthews Run, a motel owner and operator, appeared before the commission to request their recommendation that Route 27 from Youngsville to Chanders Valley receive state-wide recognition and marking as a route which could bring some 1,000 cars to the area without burdening Warren borough traffic. Roberti agreed to present a more detailed map of the route in question which Rusin will study further.

William M. Smith, proprietor and owner of Twin Kiss Drive-In at the intersection of Routes 6 and 59, stated a desire to expand the business but said the

Army Gives Up Training Soldier On Crutches

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Army finally has surrendered in its attempt to train a soldier on crutches.

But, if all goes well, William J. Witaconis ought to be able to chuck his crutches in another six weeks and return to duty as a private with his Pennsylvania National Guard unit.

Witaconis, 26, had a 10-pound plaster cast removed from his left leg Thursday, three days after the Army gave up trying to make him do summer field training at the Edward H. Martin Military Reservation for two weeks starting Saturday.

His trouble began, Witaconis said, when he tore a ligament in his knee June 26 while playing softball. He came off the operating table with a plaster cast reaching from his toes half way up his thigh.

When a medical report of Witaconis' accident reached the brigade surgeon, he readily agreed that summer camp not only was "not in the best interests" of Witaconis but said that he shouldn't go to drills at all.

The brigade surgeon sent a letter to Witaconis' company commander and gave Witaconis a copy, Witaconis said.

But, said Witaconis, at 2 a.m. Sunday a soldier arrived at his apartment in the city's Germantown section, awakened him and his wife, Katherine, and handed him a formal notice to report for camp under threat "of a warrant for your arrest and confinement."

Witaconis said his wife drove him, his cast, his crutches and a few personal things in a suitcase to camp where he reported for duty.

"They put me in a medical station for the night," said Witaconis. "Then they took me to a post hospital in an ambulance for a medical examination."

Finally, they sent him home to get well.

Institutional Care Costs $139,664

(TMO Harrisburg Bureau)

HARRISBURG—The State Department of Public Welfare said yesterday during the month of May 685 Warren County residents were receiving long-term institutional care at a cost total of $139,664, paid for by the state, with the aid of federal funds.

Of this number, 619 were in state institutions for the mentally ill and received $129,225 in care.

Sixty-six persons were in private nursing homes with 49 old age assistance recipients receiving $7,264 in care, four blind persons receiving care totaling $739 and 13 disabled persons receiving $2,436 in care.

Expenses were split by the state and federal governments with the state paying $61,827 and the federal government $77,837.

Delegate Challenges May Bring Floor Fights, Chaos in Chicago

WASHINGTON (AP) — The seating of nearly 20 per cent of the delegates and alternates to the Democratic National Convention is under challenge.

Walter Posen, counsel to the Credentials Committee, said Thursday challenges from 15 states to the credentials of approximately 1,000 delegates and alternates are an all-time record.

At a news conference, Posen said New Jersey Gov. Richard J. Hughes, chairman of the 110-member committee, has taken steps to assure that all contestants receive fair play.

Posen said that "the credibility of the entire convention is at stake" in the way the challenges are handled in hearings starting in Chicago Aug. 19.

The major issues to be resolved were listed by Posen as: 1) whether the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote rulings apply to a national party convention; 2) whether delegates can be required to pledge loyalty to the party ticket, and 3) whether delegations are representative from the standpoint of both racial and ethnic groups and the relative strength of competing candidates for the presidential nomination.

The 15 states from which challenges have been received, in the order of the Credentials Committee's scheduled hearings, are Mississippi, Tennessee, Washington, Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Connecticut, Oklahoma, Texas, Georgia, Alabama, Wisconsin, North Carolina, New York, Michigan and Indiana.

Challenges from Kentucky, Louisiana and Missouri are also listed, but Posen said his latest information is that these have been or will be withdrawn.

Posen said a standing subcommittee of the Democratic National Committee will sit in on the hearings of the Credentials Committee and, after listening to the testimony, will draw up a temporary convention roll.

Delegates on this temporary roll will be seated at the outset of the convention. The subsequent recommendations of the Credentials Committee with respect to contested delegates will be subject to approval by the convention.

Many of the challenges involve claims by supporters of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of

Federal Reserve System Reduces Lending Rate From 5-1/2% to 5-1/4%

(c) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON—The Federal Reserve System reduced its basic lending rate Thursday from 5½ to 5¼ per cent, thus taking its first step toward reducing the high rates of interest that it helped to create during the long fight over the tax increase.

The change in the discount rate, which is believed to have been controversial within the Federal Reserve System itself, was the smallest that the Federal Reserve ever makes.

President Johnson immediately announced, from the ranch press office in Austin, that he was "pleased" with the reduction.

Johnson said that the cut should help to stimulate "a needed increase in the pace of home building in the months ahead."

The vote for the change, by the Federal Reserve's board of governors, was 5-0, with Govs. George W. Mitchell and Daane absent and not voting.

The Federal Reserve board itself described the change as "primarily technical" and one in which it was following the movement of other interest rates rather than leading them.

Other interest rates have, in fact, generally come down since enactment of the 10 per cent tax surcharge in late June.

Changes in the discount rate are, however, rarely considered to be exclusively technical or without influence on the financial markets, even when they do follow, rather than lead, changes in private rates.

The Reserve board's action was thus seen as a signal that it believes that enactment of the tax increase has removed at least some of the inflationary pressures from the economy and that it would not object to seeing interest rates fall further.

A change in the discount rate, which is the interest rate that the Federal Reserve charges banks that borrow from it, is generally followed by some changes in other interest rates.

Some of these rates tend to move rather quickly after a discount rate change—for example, the rate on large bank loans to businesses—and some rather slowly if at all—such as those on home mortgages.

The Federal Reserve board began pushing interest rates up last November, after the devaluation of the British pound and the refusal of Congress to enact an anti-inflationary tax increase had begun to cause a widespread worry abroad about the future of the dollar.

According to modern economic theory, higher interest rates can help restrain inflation by discouraging borrowing and the economic growth that is built on credit.

The same widely accepted theory holds that a tax increase will also achieve such restraint, and achieve it more quickly and directly, by reducing the amounts of money that individuals and businesses have available to spend.

Sorry 'Mr. Chamber'

It has been common, maybe without reason, to always call the annual summer Wednesday affair the Merchants' Picnic. This year, as most creatures of habit, the newspaper in a picture caption Thursday morning said we had a Merchants' Picnic. We were in error. It was the "Warren County Chamber of Commerce 1968 Annual Outing," as WCCC executive vice president Barry Epstein pointed out in his first effort the following morning.

We are here to be accurate and factual. If we are not, we are not fulfilling our role.

JIM BISHOP

Hello and Goodbye

There were two long rows of white beds and a bar of buttered sunlight coming through the windows. The women in the beds had saffron skin and the hair, white, brown and black, was in disarray on pillows. This was Medical Nine. Most of the ladies were engrossed in the slow and awkward process of dying.

It was embarrassing to see the over-large eyes staring at the chipped ceiling, or closed against the long mysterious voyage ahead. I was there to see Mary Foley. I had written about her before, but I stopped when a reader accused me of writing to incite pity for a relative.

Three nieces, pretty women, stood around the bed. "It's too bad you made such a long trip," one of them said. "She's in a coma." The face was stout on the pillow. The cerebral hemorrhage which flooded her brain must have induced painless slumber because the expression was serene. The mouth fell inward because the teeth were out. The hair, straight and shoulder length, was white.

Once, when I was little and tables were tall, I knew this woman well. She gave me five cents for myself, Mary earned $12 a week in Durkee's factory in New York and her mother gave her fifty cents for spending money. I got ten percent.

As a productive human being, she would be rated as worthless. She was born with a speech impediment which made her say "Don't" for "John," "rit" for "rich" and "juncta" for "junc-a door for a subject that would hardly catch our eye.

Maybe we should have a merchants' picnic every year. This affair wasn't limited to just merchants, but anyone in or related to business who wished to come along, play horseshoes, softball, golf, join in a game or two, hear some music, dance if they so liked, or just have a little conversation.

There was a little or some of this Wednesday.

But then there's nothing wrong in becoming polished. Especially when the items are new cars, newly redecorated offices and now long-titled "picnics."

With A 'So What'

HARRISBURG — Columnist's Notebook:

EPITOME OF ACCURACY — Bureaucracy never has been known as any sort of shining light of efficiency, brilliance or accuracy (except to defending bureaucratic chieftains themselves) with the result that tax-

Back on April 23 during the primary election of that date, special elections were held to fill vacancies in the House of Representatives. The count at that time stood at 101 Republican House members, 96 Democrats and six vacancies — as duly recorded in the weekly "history" of the House (issued when the Legislature is in session) at that time.

When the April 23 primary was held, the six House vacancies were duly filled bringing the tabulation to 104 Republicans and 99 Democrats. That was on April 23. Four months later in the latest issue of the House "history" still carries the count in the House, under its "recapitulation" page, as 101 Republicans, 96 Democrats and six vacancies!

MARKED FOR THE AXE — Pennsylvania's Capitol Hill long has been noted for its cover of stately, upstanding trees, carefully nurtured and cared for, many identified by small plaques on each tree.

Recently several trees have had a small band of yellow painted around their trunks — objects of pointed curiosity to tourists and visitors; that is, curiosity until one looks at the trees closely and discovers that they range from leafless to leaves just turning brown. A check with the Department of Property and Supplies, whose housekeeping chore it is to look after such items, has produced a rather sorry tale.

Eight of these trees have had the mark of the yellow paint brush whisked around their trunks — marked for the woodsman's buzzsaw. Reason: All eight trees are American Elms, smitten by the deadly Dutch Elm Disease which has been knocking out old and stately American Elms everywhere.

Some of those destined for the rotating steel teeth measure two feet at the base. There is one monster on the northwest corner of Capitol Hill which has yet to gain the yellow strip distinction. Measuring easily five feet at the base, it must have a spread of more than a hundred feet.

The size of the elm has caused visitors to gawk, and over the years has attracted so much attention that a year or two ago the Department of Property and Supplies was moved to imbed a small bronze plaque in concrete at the base of the elm which states simply:

"Planted by Gov. George Wolf 1829-1835."

NO OFFICIAL STATE TREE? — It is a curious fact but as this column has pointed out on several occasions within recent years there is no "official state tree" — the hemlock — planted in the roaring "forest" that abounds on Capitol Hill.

No one seems to know exactly why Pennsylvania's official tree was never planted. This column suggested that when the plantings for the new State Museum Complex were due to be installed a few years ago, that at least one hemlock seedling to be placed therein. The reply at the time: the planting contract had already been awarded (which of course followed the conventional line of bureaucratic clasptrap).

But alas it seems that finally and belatedly Pennsylvania's "official" Capitol Hill is to have a few "official" state trees planted thereon. This column has been advised by the Department of Supplies that some, if not all, of the replacements for the American Elms to fall under the axe will be hemlocks!

Happenings Years Ago

Youngstown borough council passed an ordinance which provides for the licensing of hawkers, vendors, peddlers and others from going house to house or place to place, with or without vehicles, for the purpose of selling or peddling wares, goods or merchandise.

Babe Ruth, baseball's ailing homerun king, was reported in critical condition at Memorial Hospital in New York. The hospital said Ruth had developed a higher temperature and that there were pulmonary complications.

One of the happiest persons in Warren County was Grace Stanton, wife of Arthur Stanton of Lander, when she learned she had been awarded a first place in the sixth annual Bestor Art Festival at Chautauqua. Competing in the amateur's traditional oil class, Mrs. Stanton was awarded her first for "Winter Sunrise."

Old Friends Run Against HHH

WASHINGTON — Hubert Humphrey is a believer in competition. In fact he has trained and educated his competition. Sometimes, however, he wishes that the men he has trained wouldn't decide to compete with him just as he is reaching for life's biggest goal.

It was Humphrey, then mayor of Minneapolis and a founder of the Democratic Farmer-Labor party, who saw the political appeal of a young professor at St. Thomas College in St. Paul and helped him get elected to the House of Representatives in 1948. Ten years later, Humphrey helped the young Congressman get elected to the Senate.

Today that young professor, Eugene McCarthy, is running against Humphrey for President. In 1957 another young professor, this time from South Dakota, got elected to Congress and because he admired Humphrey, they both being natives of South Dakota, he asked Humphrey's advice about getting a house in Washington. Hubert recommended a modest neighborhood in Chevy Chase where prices were not too high.

So young Congressman George McGovern took a mortgage on a house next door to Hubert's at Coquelin Terrace.

At that time the hedge between the McGovern's and the Humphrey's back yards was so low that you could step over it; so the Humphrey and McGovern children grew up together. There wasn't even a family row when the Humphrey dachshund infiltrated the McGovern's yard to kill the McGovern children's pet Easter rabbit.

Later, when the young Congressman from South Dakota wanted to run for the Senate, Humphrey persuaded Lt. Gov. Frank Lindsey not to run in the Democratic primary against him. This was in 1962 after Sen. Francis Case died and there was an excellent chance of electing a Democrat. Thanks to Hubert, McGovern was nominated without Democratic opposition.

Hubert held a fund-raising reception for him and also approached Mary Lasker, the Democratic angel in New York, to get some campaign funds for McGovern. McGovern was elected to the Senate.

Today the ex-professor from Dakota Wesleyan University is running for President against his old neighbor.

"You work with a fellow for years," Hubert mused to a friend, "then, bingo, he runs against you. However, I'm not going to get mad about it."

Out in California at the Democratic caucus last week, Pierre Salinger, former press secretary to President Kennedy, confided to friends that Kennedy family supporters were putting Sen. McGovern in the race because of the snide speech Eugene McCarthy had made as a eulogy to Bobby Kennedy. They were down on McCarthy, Salinger said.

Two weeks earlier, Sen. McGovern had been in California, conferring with Speaker Jesse Unruh, leader of the Kennedy forces, who as-

Among the solutions proposed for today's horrifying airport delays in key cities is a new rate schedule which would offer bargains to those traveling in off hours.

It is a mighty superficial "cure" for the fundamental problem of soaring air traffic and grossly inadequate airports, but if it is tried it will dramatize the comment of a Pan Am official that "the subject of air fare bargains can get as complicated as an entry visa for an American to visit Red China."

Even before anything new is attempted, it is obvious that we, the nation's air travelers, are already tangled in a fantastic web of air fare bargains. It has reached the point where some airline comes up with a new twist on air fare bargains almost weekly. The web has become so involved that even experienced travel agents and reservations clerks find it difficult to compare available bargains for their customers.

Nevertheless, the bargains are there — and if you use them, it's possible for your family to save hundreds of dollars on the pires to be governor of California. McGovern was quoted as saying he probably could not support Hubert Humphrey.

Back in Washington McGovern came to see his old neighbor, the Vice President, said he had been misquoted.

A week later he was in Chicago at another meeting, also attended by Speaker Unruh and Kennedy family supporters. They persuaded him to run. McGovern's will be a holding operation in the hope of tying up the Democratic convention. If so, it's barely possible, though not probable, that the Kennedys can pick their own candidate.

It looks as if the auto industry is getting ready to follow the steel industry in bucking the White House for a price increase on 1969 cars.

The excuse will be added safety features, though actually the only safety features next year will be two head supports, to prevent neck injuries from rear-end collisions. The head supports will cost around $10. Despite this, government experts have word from Detroit that new car prices will be upped around $100.

Actually, increased auto profits and increased productivity should lead to decreased prices. However, all signs indicate that General Motors will increase prices across the board and that the others of the big three will follow.

Some people are wondering what happened to Sen. Abe Ribicoff's hearings which began last February with a demand that the motor moguls make public the details regarding the cost of safety devices. The Ribicoff hearings have now petered out into a plan whereby the auto industry gives cost data to the Bureau of Labor Statistics which promptly treats them as if they were a military secret. Even the Highway Safety Bureau has not been able to get a look at these cost figures.

This is a strange anti-climax for Senate hearings which began with such a flourish. However, the fact is that Ribicoff, an excellent Senator, faces a tough reelection battle in Connecticut. If he bucks the auto industry, it can send money into Connecticut to defeat him.

The original name of the GOP nominee for Vice President is Anagnostopoulos, which means "the son of a reader."

In Greece, a reader is a lay officer of the Greek Orthodox Church. His job is to read to the congregation.

"Papa" Anagnostopoulos, father of Spiro T. Agnew, the governor of Maryland, was a restaurant owner in Baltimore, and exceptionally well educated for an immigrant. He was active in AHEPA, the American Hellenic organization, where he wanted more scholarship and was one of the first to urge that Greek immigrants look upon the United States as a permanent home, not a temporary resting place.

"If we follow this path," said Papa Anagnostopoulos, "we will see the day when one of our descendants is in the White House."

How prophetic was Anagnostopoulos?

Guide to Air Fare Bargains

air fare portion of just a single vacation trip.

Did you know, for example, that you can pay from $69.30 to $111.30 for a round trip air ticket between New York and Chicago? Or that the cost of flying from New York to San Juan and back now ranges from $90 to $228?

In the past several months, many of the most widely-used bargain air fares have been drastically changed while a host of new "funny fares" have been introduced by various airlines.

To help guide you through today's air fare bargain maze, here's a rundown of major bargains now available:

FAMILY FARES. A new, simplified schedule of family air fares is now being adopted by most domestic airlines. The husband pays a full first class or tourist fare; the wife gets a 25 per cent discount; children aged 12 through 21 get a 50 per cent discount; children aged two through 11 get a 2/3 discount, and children under two ride free. The fares are effective outside peak traveling hours on Friday and Sunday. To illustrate, a family of four including children aged 10 and 15 could fly from New York to Miami for $196.82 vs. $260.93 if all paid the full economy fare.

YOUTH FARES. Most airlines today offer air travelers' aged 12 through 21 a flat 50 per cent discount for travel within the U.S. You must buy an identification card for $3, travel on a standby basis and avoid peak travel hours and holidays. Some airlines are offering instead a one-third youth discount, with confirmed reservations.

DISCOVER AMERICA FARES. Basically, you pay 25 per cent less than regular coach fare on round trips completed within 30 days. To illustrate, the New York-Los Angeles round trip Discover America fare is $227.85 vs. $304.50 for regular coach.

THE 21-DAY EXCURSION FARE ABROAD. This year you'll be able to travel round trip between New York and London for $300, Monday through Thursday. Or, if you travel in a group of 15 or more, each of whom has bought at least $70 worth of ground services as well, the New York-London round trip fare is only $230.

Then there are a variety of special fares — for military servicemen traveling on a standby basis, for those taking a long weekend between Saturday morning and midnight Monday, for parents and spouses of wounded Vietnam veterans recuperating in Hawaii.

The long-term trend of air fares is downward — one of the few services for which this is true, and pointing the way are the "bargain" deals of today.

ART BUCHWALD

The Little Old Phrase-Maker

WASHINGTON — The largest manufacturer of political rhetoric in the United States is Hiram Thesaurus, with whom I was fortunate to talk at the Republican National Convention in Miami Beach last week.

The s a u r u s was standing in front of one of his retail stands taking inventory, when I asked him, "How's business?"

"Great," he said. "All the rhetoric-makers expect 1968 to be the biggest year we've ever had. We got off to a good start at the Republican Convention, and there is no reason why we shouldn't do as well or better in Chicago."

"What item has been moving best?"

"Law and order" has been the biggest seller this year. We can't even keep the law and order rhetoric in stock. The minute it's put out on the counter, it's grabbed up."

"What else is selling?"

"Peace at home and abroad is a very big item. I don't think there's a politician running for office this year who hasn't bought at least one, 'The crisis of the cities' is also moving very well, but the one that really surprised us was 'a piece of the action.' We made a few as samples, and before we knew it everyone was using it to describe what the minorities wanted. I sold one to Barry Goldwater, one to Sen. Brooke, and Nixon bought a gross from me wholesale. We've had so many orders on this one that a lot of politicians have to wait two weeks for delivery on it."

"How's the 'cry for new leadership' going?"

"That's been a smash down here, of course, but we were prepared for it. I'm not too sure how well it will do in Chicago, though we have had advance orders on it from the McCarthy people."

"In the manufacture of political rhetoric, do you design your own phrases or do you just copy what's been used before?"

"Both. We have the standard rhetoric items such as 'fiscal responsibility' and 'politics of expediency' which the politicians use every four years. But we also have to come up with new rhetoric which will catch the ear of the voter."

"Such as?"

"Well, as you remember, in 1964 a lot of political rhetoric was aimed against the press. This year we've designed rhetoric which will attack the Supreme Court. You can't imagine what a demand there is this year for 'coddling the criminals.' Another one which we came up with is 'Let's not ask what is wrong with America, but what's right with America.'"

"I see you have one there on the counter titled 'Tell it like it is.'"

"That's been selling like mad, almost as well as 'a man for our time.' Another big surprise is our 'erosion' kit. It comes in a set: 'erosion of the cities,' 'erosion of the dollar,' 'erosion of moral values' and 'erosion of America's prestige abroad.' We've also been doing well with 'rebuilding the urban and slum areas' and 'facing up to the challenges and responsibilities of the disenfranchised.'"

As we were talking, a politician came up with his campaign manager and said, "Do you have any more 'new and dynamic leadership' rhetoric?"

"Yes, sir," Thesaurus said. "How are you fixed for 'excessive federal spending'?"

"Give me whatever you've got. Do you have any rhetoric on the Pueblo?"

"We're running a special on 'a fourth-rate military power humiliating the most powerful nation in the world.'"

"I'll take two."

"Right. Now what about 'one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all'?"

"No," said the politician. "I don't want to lose the South in my campaign."

Peach Harvest Begins

The peach harvest is getting started in the Erie County Fruit Belt this week according to Harold Campbell, extension area marketing agent. This year's crop is expected to be superior in quality to last year's short crop. And, with this year's reasonable prices in prospect, peaches will provide an exceptional value for the budget-minded homemaker. Harvest of the main crop varieties begin with the Sun Havens, already being picked. Red Havens, the most popular variety, will be ready about the 18th and continue for a week or so, depending somewhat on the weather. This is a highly versatile and attractive peach especially valued for canning or freezing. As with all Haven varieties, it also has good fresh market qualities.

Toward the last of August some Fair Havens and a few Jubilees will be ready. Elbertas are no longer widely grown due to replacement by improved varieties.

Peaches will be available both ready picked and "on the tree" for those who enjoy picking their own. The customer who does his own picking can expect to save $1 to $1.50 per bushel.

Market Slips To Moderate Loss

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market slipped to a moderate loss Thursday after a two-day advance.

Prices moved up briskly in the first hour on a surge of trading that involved institutional orders which accumulated Wednesday when the securities exchanges were closed. A steady erosion then set in and the market was at its lowest level at the close.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed with a loss of 5.17 to 879.51. The Associated Press 60-stock average fell 1.5 to 328.8 with industrials off 3.4, rails off .6 and utilities up .3.

Volume of 12.71 million shares on the New York Stock Exchange was the lowest for a Thursday since it began closing on Wednesday June 12.

Occidental Petroleum, off 1/2 at 45 1/2 on 194,000 shares, was the most active.

Rubbers, farm implements, aircrafts, chemicals, oils and airlines declined. Mail order retailers advanced.

Pittsburgh Steel advanced 2 1/2 to 17 1/2.

Hess Oil advanced 3/4 to 50 3/4 and Amerasia rose 1/4 to 82 1/2 on a recurrence of a rumor of a possible merger.

Commercial Credit gained 3/4 at 67 1/2 after stockholders approved its acquisition by Control Data. A loss of 2 to 15 1/2 was taken by Control Data. Losses included Jersey Standard 2 1/2 to 76 1/4, Boeing 2 1/2 to 56 1/4, Anaconda 1 1/2 to 44 1/4, Du Pont 2 1/2 to 152 1/4, U.S. Smelting 1 1/2 to 60 1/4, and Merck 1 1/2 to 88 1/2.

Fairchild Camera advanced 1 1/2 to 70 1/4, Chrysler was up 1 1/4 to 64 1/2 and ACF Industries was ahead 1 1/2 to 56.

Prices declined on the American Stock Exchange. Volume rose to 5.66 million shares from 4.99 million Tuesday.

HELP WANTED: DENTIST

GABERONES, Botswana (AP) — Toothaches are a major problem in Botswana because there is no dentist for the country's 500,000-plus population.

Everybody from President Sir Seretse Khama on down has to leave the country for professional dental treatment. The president of black-ruled Botswana (formerly Bechuanaland) flies to white-ruled Rhodesia for dentistry.

The New York Giants Are 'Cautiously Optimistic'

FAIRFIELD, Conn. (AP) — The New York Giants' September Song will have a snappy lyric this year... but the Sundays could grow long when they reach November.

Coach Alie Sherman's young Giants, buoyed by a 15-14 upset victory over mighty Green Bay in their exhibition opener last weekend, await next month's regular season kickoff with cautious optimism.

An explosive attack keyed by the Fran Tarkenton-Homer Jones aerial combination, a rebuilt defensive unit and a favorable early schedule could toss New York into the thick of the National Football League's Capital Division title race.

But the stretch run figures to be uphill all the way.

Starting Nov. 3, the Giants tackle the powerful Baltimore Colts at home, then play three road games in the next four weeks against three 1967 division champions—Dallas, Los Angeles and Cleveland.

Home games against St. Louis and Dallas complete the second half schedule. The Giants must break even, at worst, with Dallas' defending Capitol champs for a shot at the top spot. But they haven't been able to beat the Cowboys since 1963.

Tarkenton, the x-Minnesota Vikings quarterback for whom New York relinquished two No. 1 draft choices and a No. 2 pick in a 1967 trade, directed the Giants to a 7-7 comeback season following the 1-12-1 disaster of the previous year. The 28-year-old scrambler rolled up 3,088 passing yards and hit for 29 touchdowns—13 of them to split end Jones.

Jones averaged just under 25 yards for each of his 49 receptions and led the league with a total of 14 TDs while tight end Aaron Thomas grabbed 51 passes and flanker Joe Morrison had 37 catches.

The running game could be solid too, if injury-plagued Tucker Frederickson can rebound from a second knee operation in two years and Ernie Koy can approach his 1967 form.

Three veterans, center Greg Larson and guards Pete Case and Darrell Doss, along with third-year tackle Willie Young, lead the offensive charge. Steve Wright, acquired from Green Bay along with linebacker Tommy Crutcher in a trade, has landed the other tackle spot.

Sherman hopes Les Murod can handle the place-kicking chores if Pete Gogolak, completing an Army hitch in Germany, is unable to join the club.

"We think our offense, with Tarkenton, will be explosive again," the coach says.

The Giants' defense, cuffed for 501 points, an NFL record, two years ago, improved considerably in 1967. But the Giants were outscored again, 379-369.

"We'd like to see an upgrade of about 25 per cent on defense," he says. "I'd like to see us rush the passer better, for one thing."

Bucs Snap Giants Streak

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Donn Clendenon singled home one run in the first inning and another scored on an error as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the San Francisco Giants 2-0 Thursday night behind the four-hit pitching of Steve Blass.

The loss ended the Giants' five game winning streak.

Clendenon single scored Matty Alou, who had singled.

Willie Stargell, who was intentionally walked after Alou's hit, raced to third on Clendenon's hit and crossed when Jim Hart tumbled Manny Mota's grounder.

Blass, 10-5 was in trouble only in the third when Jay Alou and Hal Lanier singled with none out.

But the righthander got loser Bob Bolin, 6-4, on a pop foul to catcher Chris Cannizzaro and struck out Bobby Bonds and Ron Hunt.

Dick Dietz touched Blass for a single in the fifth, but was erased on a double play, and Blass was nicked for a single in the ninth for the Giants' two other hits.

Pittsburgh mounted a threat in the eighth when Gene Alley slapped a grounder that went through Willie McCovey's legs for an error. Matty Alou bunted and got aboard when Hal Lanier dropped Phil Linzy's throw to second, Alley stopping at second.

Stargell then hit into a double play and Hunt threw out Clendenon to snuff out the rally.

The Pirates threatened earlier when Maury Willis opened the fifth with a single, moved to second on a wild pitch and rambled to third on a ground out.

Mike McCormick replaced Bolin on the mound and got Matty Alou on a pop up and Stargell on a ground out.

Sherman hopes Les Murod can handle the place-kicking chores if Pete Gogolak, completing an Army hitch in Germany, is unable to join the club.

Schnars and Blackmer Stateline Record Makers

The names Bob Schnars and Ron Blackmer remain high on the list at Stateline Speedway for setting and equaling records never before thought possible.

Schnars' 25-lap feature victory Saturday at Stateline brought him another step closer to equaling a nine year old record at the Busti, N.Y. track and Blackmer is battling a sizzling .762 in Sportsman competition with a reading of 10 wins in a 13 race program.

The mark Schnars is working for is the record Squirt Johns set of eight season wins established in 1959. Schnars is just three short of the mark. With three racing cards remaining on Stateline's schedule, the Busti driver must make a clean sweep of the remaining features in order to equal John's mark.

Blackmer has all but wrapped up the 1968 Sportsman track championship with his 100-lap victory last Saturday. The Youngsville driver set a mark

That task will fall to ends Jim Katsavage, a 13-year vet, and Bruce Anderson and tackles Roger Anderson and Bob Lurtsema. The Giants are deep in linebackers.

The defensive backfield will probably have Scott Eaton and Willie Williams at the corners, Carl Lockhart at free safety and Freeman White at strong safety.

Giusti Tops Phillies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Doug Rader's eighth inning run-scoring double broke a tie and gave the Houston Astros a 3-2 victory over Philadelphia Thursday night.

The Phillies took a 2-0 lead off winner Dave Giusti with a run in the first on doubles by Tony Taylor and John Briggs, and another in the fourth on a Cookie Rojas' sacrifice fly.

Wynn's two-run homer in the sixth tied it 2-2.

Shannon Has Grand Slam

CHICAGO (AP) — Mike Shannon belted the first grand slam homer of his career and drove in five runs to propel the first-place St. Louis Cardinals to an 8-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs Thursday.

Four-run outbursts in the first two innings were all the Cardinals needed to wind up season play against the runner-up Cubs with a 9-9 shutout.

Nelson Briles toyed with the Cubs before another Wrigley Field ladies day crowd of 34,811, including 23,116 paid, Briles recorded his 16th triumph against seven losses with a seven-hitter for his shutout.

In splitting a four-game series, which left the Cards 14 games in front, the top two National League clubs played before a total of 121,750.

The loser, Kenny Holtzman, now 8-9, was bombed out in the Cards' four-run first, capped by John Edwards' two-run double. Lou Brock opened the game with a two-bagger and scored on Julian Javier's double. Shannon scored Javier with a single.

Shannon's grand slammer in the second greeted Bill Stoneman who relieved Jack Lamabe after Briles' single and two walked filled the bases. Shannon also singled in the ninth for his ninth hit of the series.

Carl Yastrzemski drove in Boston's first two runs with a single in the fifth. Ken Harrelson sent home the other with a single in the seventh for his 99th run batted in of the year.

Golfers Tell Fish Story

BRainerd, Minn. (AP) — Leo Marchel tied off first on the third hole at the Brainerd golf course and he got a hole-in-one.

After watching Marchel's first hole-in-one after 21 years of trying, Don Doshen hit his shot on the 135-yard hole and put it close enough for his birdie 2.

John Beyer was the third to tee off and he managed a par 3. Harold Spielman was the last to hit. Sure enough, he encountered some problems and took a 4.

Walden Joins Pittsburgh Team

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers said Thursday they have acquired punter Bobby Walden from the Minnesota Vikings for an undisclosed draft choice in a National Football League trade.

Walden joined the Vikings in 1964 as a free agent. He was sixth in the NFL in punting last year and averaged 41.6 yards a kick. Walden, a graduate of Georgia, will join the Steelers at San Diego, Calif., where they'll meet the Chargers Saturday.

THE BABE IN HIS SWINGING DAYS

With all this talk about pitcher domination of baseball, handle hitters and 200 minus batting averages, here's a picture of an old timer, who could hit for distance and average, and was a pretty fair pitcher to boot. His name, Babe Ruth, and he played for the New York Yankees many years ago.

Bell Blanks White Sox

BOSTON (AP) — Gary Bell worked his way out of a couple of early inning jams and then pitched brilliantly Thursday in hurling the Boston Red Sox to a 3-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Bell, posting his 10th victory in 18 decisions, retired 19 consecutive batters after Buddy Bradford singled for Chicago's third hit with one out in the second.

Carl Yastrzemski drove in Boston's first two runs with a single in the fifth. Ken Harrelson sent home the other with a single in the seventh for his 99th run batted in of the year.

Twins and Orioles Split

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — PAUL (AP) — Rod Carew beat the relay to first on a potential inning-ending double play to drive in the tie-breaking run in the eighth inning as Minnesota clipped Baltimore 2-1 Thursday for a split in a two-night double header.

The Orioles won the opener 4-3 with three runs in the fifth inning on Larry Haney's homer, a sacrifice fly and an error.

The split left the second-place Orioles seven games behind idle Detroit.

Carew, the American League's leading hitter who left the first game with a sore knee, pinch hit with runners on first and third and grounded into a force out. But he narrowly beat second baseman Dave Johnson's return throw to first as Rich Reese scampered home.

Sigel Leads Pa. Amateur

PAOLI, Pa. (AP) — Two-time champion Jay Sigel cooled off and chased par most of the way, but still managed to grab a two-stroke lead at the end of the second round Thursday in the 55th Pennsylvania Amateur golf championship.

Sigel, who shot a stunning 69 in Wednesday's opening round, jumped to a 75 on the 7,199-yard birdie-resistant Waynesborough Country Club course here. Par is 72.

But while Sigel, of the Aronimink CC, was chasing par, the rest of the field was chasing him. Lou Riggs of Manufacturers and George Griffin of Green Valley, were knotted in second place.

Riggs carded a 74 Thursday to go with his first-round 72 and Griffin fired a one-under-par 71 to go with a 75.

The field of 102 was cut to the low 40 scorers Thursday. The cutoff score was 162.

Murphy Leads Westchester

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Rookie pro Bob Murphy, chipping in for an eagle and putting for seven birdies, cranked out an eight-under-par 64 for a single stroke first round lead in the $50,000 Westchester Golf Classic Thursday—and shook up the cigar industry.

"I may never smoke again," commented the rotund, 25-year-old former National Amateur champion from Nichols, Fla., after setting a near record par-cracking pace over the 6,648-yard, par 72 Westchester course.

Normally, a chain cigar smoker who burns up four or five a round, Murphy, because of his early starting time, was unable to stock up on his favorite brand and had to make the tour with his clubs, particularly his putter, doing all the smoking.

"I really didn't notice it much," he said, "I concentrated better than I have in any tournament so far as a pro."

Lawyer-golfer Dan Sikes birdied nine of the 18 holes in firing a 65 for second place, followed by 44-year-old Art Wall, Jr., former Masters winner, at 66 and big Jack Nicklaus, the defending champion and red-hot favorite, at 67.

More than 50 players broke Westchester's par, but it wasn't a record.

Both Lee Trevino, the reigning U.S. Open King, and 48-year-old Julius Boros, the oldest PGA champion ever, staged dramatic come-backs to join the list of par-beaters.

Trevino, playing the back nine first, was out in 38 but stormed home in 31 for a 69, saying, "I decided to go for everything. I went boom, boom for the flag every time." Boros, out in 38, rallied with a 32 for a 70.

Three foreigners were in the semi-private club of 68 shooters—left-hander Bob Charles of New Zealand and Australians Bruce Crampton and Bob Stanton, who share the spot with Gardner Dickinson, Bobby Nichols and Dudley Wysong.

Masters champion Bob Goalby was in the traffic rush at 69. Billy Casper was among a score at 70. Tom Weiskopf, the year's leading money winner with $142,441, was a dour and unhappy disappointment at 74.

It was a full schedule in the Rec League last night as eight of the nine teams saw action. The real surprise was Sheffield Tavern's win of T & C 10-6. The other battles found Thomas Coupling over R. W. Norris 16-5, Sub Shop topped Surf Club 24-7 and Local 469 pounded DeVore's Keystone 11-9.

Tavern's win came off the arm of Tony Mihalko while Doug Baldensperger suffered the loss. Ken Goldthwaite gave the winners a double. Jack Barnes and Baldensperger snagged two-bagger for T & C.

Buck Marshall picked up the win for Thomas with Dave "Bear" Engle feeling the pain of defeat. Bob Wallace was the only headliner as he smashed a round-tripper to aid the win. Local 469 picked up its victory with the aid of Jim Davis, Davis connected for a homer in the bottom of the seventh to pull the win out for 469. Davis also popped a double and a homer.

The victory for 469 went to Jack Colvin with Gary Rain suffering DeVore's loss.

Sub Shop held a real rally last night totaling nine homers. Terry Jackson led the pack with three homers while Chuck McDermott and Don Baldensperger each smashed two. Mike Davis and Jim Ostergard popped homers to aid the win. Ostergard also snagged a double along with Joe Huber.

The victory went to Ostergard with Jim "Blue Moon" Dahler tagged for the loss. Chuck McDermott went three-for-four for Sub and Jackson hit four-for-four. Jeff Marti cracked a triple for Surf while Chuck Kurzbomb bombed a homer.

Rec standings are as follows:

City	Score
Sub Shop	23-1
T & C	21-5
Sheffield	17-9
DeVore's	12-15
Local 469	12-12
Surf Club	11-15
R. W. Norris	8-15
T. Coupling	4-21

Fallsington Wins In AL State Play

ALLENSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Fallsington remains the only undefeated team in the 43rd American Legion State baseball tournament here, after defeating Coplay 7-5 in play Thursday night.

Four teams were eliminated from the competition Thursday — East McKeesport, Hazelwood, Towanda and New Castle.

In night play Morgantown defeated Towanda 13-7, and Altoona took New Castle 7-4.

Earlier in the day Coplay beat New Castle 5-4. Fallsington defeated Morgantown 11-3. East McKeesport and Hazelwood were eliminated in double-elimination championships. Towanda beat East McKeesport 9-8 and Altoona nipped Hazelwood 1-0.

Antlerless Deer

HARRISBURG (AP) — County treasurers will begin accepting applications for antlerless deer licenses Sept. 16, the Pennsylvania Game Commission announced Wednesday.

The commission said 482,550 licenses would be available to Pennsylvania residents and non-resident hunters with each county assigned a quota.

An antlerless deer license costing $1.15, is valid only in the county in which it is issued. Nonresidents may not apply before Nov. 16.

Dates for the antlerless season this year were previously set by the commission for Dec. 16 and 17.

MAN WITH A RAIN CHECK

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
HARRISON, N.Y. — How could a golfer withdraw from the competition on one round, miss the cut for a second elimination on another and still win $30,000 for a runner-up finish? Dan Sikes supplied the answers that circumvented all those contradictions a year ago in the Westchester Classic, the world's richest golf tournament.

This links venture into high finance was played then -- as it is being played now -- over the lush green expanse of the Westchester Country Club. It took a series of bizarre happenings, however, to give Sikes the equivalent of a $30,000 rain check. He fell a mite short of total fantasy, though, when his bold putt for a birdie on the last hole rimmed the cup to leave him one stroke behind Jack Nicklaus, the winner of the big jackpot of $50,000.

"If I ever had won first money," said Dan today with a Cheshire Cat grin, "It would have been the golf story of the ages. So many improbabilities were involved that they almost defy belief. On the first day, a Thursday, I equalled par with a 72. Then the rains came, washing out Friday's second round completely. I went on the course with Arnie Palmer on Saturday, everything went wrong.

"I began to get dizzy spells. I never felt worse or played as poorly. Arnie said it had happened to him when he was overtired. I struggled through nine holes with either a 40 or a 41 and I was out of the tournament."

But the rain came pelting down steadily, washing out the second round in its entirety. So Bill Jennings, the general chairman, dispatched an emissary to the airport and practically hauled Sikes off the plane.

Some sticklers for the rules insisted that it was a breach of legality to return to the tournament rolls a man who already had withdrawn. But no golfer knows the legal niceties better than Dan, a graduate of the University of Florida Law School.

"I considered it an annulment, not a divorce," he said, smiling. "Because of the washout, it was as if the round had never taken place. So I tried again on Sunday, still in the second round. I had so little confidence that I checked out of my hotel that morning to beat the checkout time. I was right. I shot a 75 and missed the cut. But the weather gods were still with me. It rained to wash out the entire round once more.

"On Monday I'm back on the course with Arnie for our fifth day of trying to get in two rounds. I birdied the first four holes and wound up with 10 birdies and eight pars for a course record of 62. It was a delightful, relaxed round.

"I've been more nervous trying to shoot a 70. I felt no pressure because I had begun to feel that I was there by the grace of God."

Perhaps this illustrates more than anything else how vital is the mental approach to golf. The child-of-destiny complex flung Sikes back into contention and the carryover gave him two concluding rounds of 70 and 69.

"On the last hole," said Dan, "I had a 12-foot putt for a birdie to tie Nicklaus. I played for it to break left and it did. But the ball ran around the lip of the cup and I had to settle for second place --- and $30,000. To be brutally frank about it, I was happy and satisfied, considering my earlier misadventures, it was more than I had a right to expect."

Although he had been a top collegiate golfer at Florida U., Sikes aimed at law for his career. He passed the bar examination but never set up practice.

"I kept playing golf," he said, "And I'd have felt I was moonlighting if I also tried law on the side. Some day I'll be a fulltime lawyer but there is so much money in golf nowadays that I can't let go.

"If I ever had known how the game would grow I would have planned differently. I once thought eight years of golf would be a gracious plenty but I can't turn my back on this money. After all, I've earned close to $80,000 so far this year, not bad for a non-practicing lawyer."

Dan made more than expenses in his first year as a pro in 1961 and then cleared $16,000 in his second season. Although never a big name or a big winner, he has been up with the top 25 prize money collectors ever since, including more than $111,000 last season.

The Westchester Classic is a remarkable tournament, skillfully run by Fred Corcoran. Although rain plagued the show a year ago, the charity beneficiaries of seven Westchester hospitals still received $292,764, a record of sorts. It will be broken this weekend as the world's best golfers display their talents.

AL HUSSEIN, JORDAN'S SPORTS CITY

This is a scenic view of Al Hussein, Jordan's Sports City, named after the country's King Hussein. Although the main stadium, seating up to 30,000 people, dominated this picture, other buildings and courts go to make up this vast sports and social complex. The main stadium is used principally for soccer.

Jordan's Sports City Unique Spot In Sports and Social Picture

A young Jordanian official, visiting the Warren area, is very excited about his country's "Sports City."

Issam Areeda, 28, Jordanian cultural information officer, said the sports city, Al Hussein, is part of the Jordan youth and sports organization. The city, covering approximately 300 acres, is named after King Hussein.

It was King Hussein's desire, Areeda said, there be created a multi-purpose place for all youth activities. Emphasis would be placed on cultural and social development. Instructions called for a program for youth of all ages and from all social strata and is dedicated to their present and future.

It is hoped the Sports City activities will start satellite programs that will spread to all parts of Jordan.

Sports City is located on the northern outskirts of Amman, the capital, not far from the University of Jordan. Much attention has been given to the desire and beauty of the center, in line with the stress on cultural aspects. The facilities are complete and very flexible.

Sports facilities are available for practically any sport on the international scene. A first-class restaurant has been included to encourage visitors to spend more time at Sports City. The Sports City will play a Lands surrounding the buildings are landscaped with grass, shrubs and trees to create a dignified and pleasant atmosphere.

The social and recreation theme is noticeable in the swimming area which includes facilities for competitive events and the enjoyment of all members of the family.

There are also other places available for lectures, art presentations, music recitals, dancing and other cultural and social activities.

Washington Redskins Name Theofiledes at Quarterback

WASHINGTON (AP)—Johnny Unitas, the star quarterback of the Baltimore Colts, will be opposed by Henry Theofiledes, a quarterback graduate of the Washington Redskins' taxi squad, at the start of the National Football League exhibition Friday night.

Unitas won't be in there more than a half. With Jim Ward, the Colts' backup quarterback out with a twisted knee, Coach Don Shula plans to give Terry Southall, the former Baylor star, a shot at leading the team. Southall was on the Colts' taxi squad last season.

Baltimore, 2-0-0, beat Oakland's American Football League champions 14-12 and the Chicago Bears 10-0 in two starts. Washington, 1-1-0, lost to Houston of the AFL 9-3 and then topped Atlanta 14-14.

The Friday night NFL game kicks off a four-day, 12-game schedule for the two major leagues. It winds up on Monday night with a national television game over CBS between the Chicago Bears, 1-1-0, and NFL champion Green Bay Packers, 1-1-0, at Milwaukee. Starting time for the Monday night is 9:30 p.m., EDT.

Every team will see action except the NFL's Detroit Lions and the AFL Oakland Raiders. There will be five inter-league games. The AFL leads the senior NFL 4-2.

The Saturday night program features Dallas 1-1-0, at Los Angeles, 2-0-0 — a match between leading contenders of the Eastern and Western Conferences, and the first matchup of Missouri's two pro teams, St. Louis, 1-0-0, of the NFL, and Kansas City, 2-0-0, of the AFL, at Kansas City.

The other Saturday night games include Minnesota (N) 0-1-0, at Denver (A), 1-0-0; Philadelphia (N) 0-1-0, at Miami (A), 0-0-1; Pittsburgh (N), 0-1-0, at San Diego (A), 1-1-0; Boston (A) 0-1-1, vs. New York Jets (A) 0-1-0, at Richmond, Va.; Buffalo (A) 1-0-1, at Cincinnati (A), 0-2-0, and Atlanta (N), 0-1-0 vs. New York (N), 1-0-0, at Nashville, Tenn.

In Sunday day games, Cleveland (N) 0-1-0, plays at San Francisco (N), 0-2-0, and New Orleans (N) 1-1-0, plays Houston (A) 2-0-0, at the Astrodome.

Joe Namath, the Jets' star quarterback, will see little if any action against Boston because of a sore and swollen left knee. Thus there will be a matchup of two traded players at quarterback.

Mike Taliaferro, who was Namath's understudy until he was traded to Boston recently for Babe Parilli, will face the veteran Babe for most of the game.

Old Timers Win Again In Outdoor Basketball

There's an old saying, "Old timers never die, they just stick around," and win basketball games. That was the case last night on Besty's outdoor basketball court. Before a good sized turnout the Old Timers, made up of league coaches and officials, came from an early first period deficit, before their blood had begun to circulate, to upset the Rec League All Stars 71-66.

It may have been opening game jitters but the youngsters quickly jumped out in front 17-7 in the opening minutes only to have the oldsters tie things up midway through the second stanza and go off to sidelines leading 40-37.

The second half was nip and tuck all the way as the veterans led throughout but never by more than six points. It went practically to the final whistle, but with the score 67-66 in favor of the Old Timers, the Rec leaguers had to resort to fouling to get the ball. Twice in succession they fouled Ike Isackson and he calmly dropped four in a row through the hoop to ice the contest.

Bob Arnold, who really isn't that much of an old timer, led the way for both clubs with 21 while Isackson the former Warren and Gannon ace notched 20. For the Rec League team, Lorranger scored 18 and Don Lyle 15.

Even though they went off the court in glorious victory, the belief is that the Old Timers will probably put their sneakers back into moth balls till next season.

Mexico Olympic Games Anti-Government Target

MEXICO CITY (AP) — No matter how much official Mexico shudders at the prospects, angry students are zeroing in on the Oct. 12-27 Olympic government as a target for their anti-government protest.

Ever since July 26, college and preparatory school students have been protesting against certain aspects of the government.

The most recent disturbance, on Tuesday night, ended with an estimate of 100,000 persons in front of the National Palace. Student orators demanded that certain police officials be fired and that the riot squad be dissolved. The speakers charged that 32 students had been killed in the past three weeks. However, they couldn't name any of them.

Indicative of the official concern is the handling of the Detroit-Philadelphia National Football League exhibition game last Sunday. It was to have been played in University Stadium, site of ceremonies and the track events of the coming Olympic Games. But it was canceled at almost the last moment.

The announced reason was that few tickets had been sold. Yet, it was learned later, that at least 60,000 tickets had been sold and that perhaps half went to students who hoped to stage a demonstration which would be seen in the United States via television.

That would have hurt the attendance at the Olympic Games on which Mexico has spent millions of dollars. In Tuesday's parade, a number of banners combined the Olympic riot police, and the floodgate of Olympic abuse eased open.

In Tuesday's parade, a number of banners combined the Olympic rings with swastikas. One sign read: "Olympic Record: Mass Killing."

Another made it quite plain: "We don't want the Olympics."

Students, when pressed individually for an answer as to why they are against the Olympics, have had little to say, but observers feel they see in the Games a good chance to embarrass the Mexican government.

Proposes Naming Lunar Feature for Cosmonaut

(c) N.Y. Times News Service

VIENNA — Soviet Cosmonaut Aleksei Leonov proposed Thursday that the "Ocean of Storms," one of the most prominent features of the lunar landscape, be renamed the "Ocean of Gagarin" in honor of the first man in space.

Leonov made his unexpected proposal after reading a paper written by Maj. Yuri A. Gagarin, who was killed in a plane accident last March, to the United Nations Conference on Exploration and Peaceful Uses of Outer Space.

Frederick Seitz, president of the National Academy of Sciences of the United States, who was in the audience, commented afterward that a geographical feature of the moon should bear Major Gagarin's name, but now necessarily the "Ocean of Storms."

Told of Seitz's statement, Leonov said later that he would also favor renaming another geographical feature of the moon in honor of the three American astronauts — Virgil Grissom, Edward H. White and John Chafee — who were burned to death in a space craft at Cape Kennedy in February, 1967.

Leonov, who also achieved a "first" in 1965 as the first man to leave a space craft and "walk" in space, made a friendly reference at a press conference to the American program to put a man on the moon.

He said that the American space program had been "well developed," though delayed by the fire at Cape Kennedy. He added that while he did not know the quality of the Apollo vehicles, the American plan to put a man on the moon before 1970 should be achieved "on schedule" unless unexpected difficulties developed. He added: "I wish my American friends every success."

Asked whether the Soviet Union would try to beat the U.S. to the moon, Leonov quoted Leonid I. Brezhnev, first secretary of the Soviet Communist Party, as having said that "This is much too important to do as an organized sporting competition, we will fly when we are ready to fly." He said he agreed with this statement entirely.

Leonov was equally noncommittal when asked whether he was training for another walk in space and what technique the Soviet Union planned to use in landing a man on the moon. He replied that the Soviet authorities were still studying the different techniques, and that he was training so that he would be ready to "fly" any space vehicle he was told to.

Leonov's participation in the space conference, and his proposal today to honor the memory of the Soviet cosmonaut whose one-orbit flight made history in 1961, appear to be part of a coordinated attempt by the Soviet Union to establish itself as the dominant space power.

Negroes May Boycott Election

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, launching a convention with shouts of "Soul Power," said Thursday Negro voters might boycott the presidential election this year unless there is an acceptable candidate.

"It may be that as black people we will have to have a blackout of the presidential election," Abernathy told a cheering crowd at the opening of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference's annual convention.

Abernathy, successor to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., as SCLC president, brought the crowd to a roaring ovation and was besieged by excited supporters when he ended his lengthy speech by urging the delegates to speak out on issues of poverty, racism and war.

Abernathy said: "The black vote this year will hold the balance of power." He said it would be decisive in the South and, "I intend to preside over it."

Abernathy said there is no enthusiasm now among Negroes for Republican nominee Richard M. Nixon "because he has demonstrated that he is controlled by men like Strom Thurmond." Thurmond is a U.S. Senator from South Carolina.

"But," Abernathy said, "there may be less enthusiasm for Hubert Humphrey for fear that he may be controlled by Mayor (Richard) Daley of Chicago and Sen. (James) Eastland of Mississippi and Lyndon Baines Johnson who is now in the White House."

He also disclosed that after the election he plans to call for a strike by hospital and laundry workers. This would begin, he said, in the South with an organizing, collective bargaining movement.

In The Armed Forces

Army PFC Frederick A. Black, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Black, Route 2, Sugar Grove, was assigned to the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment at Camp Blackmore, Vietnam, July 7. A welder in Headquarters Troop of the regiment's 2d Squadron, PFC Black entered on active duty last January and completed basic training at Ft. Dix, N.J. He was last stationed at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Maryland.

Black is a 1966 graduate of Eisenhower High School and was employed by the Harbison Carburandum Corporation in Falconer, N.Y., before entering the Army.

Army Spec. 4 William A. Sproveri, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony W. Sproveri, 143 E. Irving St., Corry, was assigned July 25 to the 196th Infantry Brigade of the American Division in Vietnam. A supply specialist and armorer in Headquarters Company, 4th Battalion of the 196th Infantry Brigade's 31st Infantry, Spec. Sproveri entered the Army in January 1968 and completed basic training at Ft. Dix, N.J. He arrived in Vietnam in July 1968. The 21-year-old specialist is a 1965 graduate of Corry Area High School and attended Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky. He was employed by the Department of Streets, Corry, before entering the Army.

Grad Course In Education Set at Behrend

CORRY — A graduate level course in education will be offered in Corry this fall by Behrend Campus, Pennsylvania State University. It will be part of the Continuing Education program.

The course to be offered is the Elementary School Reading Program, a study of developmental reading from beginnings through the principles, problems, techniques and materials used in total elementary programs.

Registration will be held from 8:30 p.m. Sept. 9 and 10 at Corry Area High School. Classes are tentatively scheduled to begin Tuesday, Sept. 24. The three credits which the course provides may be used toward undergraduate credit, graduate credit or professional certification. Further information is available from the Continuing Education Office, Behrend Campus of Penn State, from Ray Elsen, superintendent of Corry Area Schools.

Seven Policemen Injured In Pitt Street Melee

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A crowd of 50 Negroes battled police with sticks, knives, flashlights and a can of chemical Mace for two hours early Thursday before the streets could be cleared.

Seven policemen were injured. One, a Negro sergeant, was stabbed in the back.

Eighteen Negroes were arrested on charges ranging from disorderly conduct to assault and battery and inciting to riot. Two were hospitalized.

David Craig, director of public safety, praised police for preventing the fight from spreading. "It certainly could have been very serious," he said.

He said the incident was one of the worst since the National Guard was called out in May. "Police did a magnificent job of cooling it," Craig said.

The trouble started at 1:30 a.m. when two white patrolmen came out of an apartment in the mainly Negro Homewood section after investigating a burglary.

They were confronted with a dozen youths milling around their squad car. They said that a nightstick and a clipboard were missing from the car.

When they asked the kids what happened, there was some "abusive language," said Lt. Joseph Verscharen. They tried to make an arrest and a scuffle started, they said.

Other police rushed in to help and soon more than two dozen officers were on the scene. The crowd grew to 50 to 60, police said, and a melee started.

Homewood Ave. was sealed off as the police tried to clear the streets.

Someone in the crowd ripped a can of Mace, a chemical tranquilizer, from the belt of one officer and squirted it in the face of another, police said. Later another officer was hit with the Mace but he didn't require treatment.

Craig said he didn't know why the youths attacked the officers. "They were only doing exactly what the people in Homewood want," he said.

Only hours before the trouble, a group called the Homewood Brushstun Renewal Council had met and asked for more police in the area, which has the highest strong-arm robbery rate in the city.

"The group also started a $200 reward fund to try to 'assist in the apprehension and conviction of the person or persons responsible for the muggings, break-ins and purse-snatchings' in the area."

Tate Warns Platform Framers Urban Problems Must Be Solved

HARRISBURG (AP) — Mayor James H. J. Tate of Philadelphia warned Thursday that unless all levels of government join in solving major urban problems, the ills that beset the nation's cities will spread to the suburbs.

"Our commitment is interdependent," Tate said in testifying before a subcommittee of the Democratic Congressional Platform Committee. "It must be all-out and total."

"The cancer of the cities can and will spread to the suburbs unless halted. The cure calls for a massive pooling of our resources now, before it is too late."

Tate was the lead-off witness at a day-long hearing of the seven-member subcommittee headed by U. S. Rep. William S. Moorhead of Pittsburgh.

Moorhead said similar hearings were being held by other subcommittees across the country and that the findings would be presented to the party's platform writers, who will meet in Chicago next week.

Tate called for a partnership between government at all levels, business, labor and community leaders, to tackle the urban problems of substandard housing, unemployment, poor transportation and inadequate police protection.

The Philadelphia chief executive, who serves as president of the National League of Cities, admitted that the cost would be considerable, but Tate said:

"Such funding is as economically sensible as an investment in developing a better standard of living for all; as it is morally imperative if we Americans are to be true to the American dream."

Mayor Joseph M. Barr of Pittsburgh complained that the state legislature and Congress were not completely committed to the problems of the cities because of their composition.

"The Pennsylvania legislature is dominated by suburban and rural lawmakers," Barr said, "and the trouble in Washington is that only a few members of Congress live in large cities."

Barr said that poverty in the cities was the major cause of racial unrest and urged the enactment of expanded federal spending programs to help municipalities cope with the problem.

"Too many of our citizens live in squalid, rat-infested houses," Barr said. "Too many children attend over crowded and inadequate schools. Too many of our men are unemployed....

"Mayors of large cities did not need the civil disturbances to alert us to these conditions. We are only too familiar with the needs of our people, but lacked the revenues and the tax base to launch a realistic attack on these problems."

Donald Kirchhoffer, a Montgomery County businessman and one of two non-Congressmen sitting on the subcommittee, said he did not see where the plight of the cities had improved over the past four years and asked whether more federal programs were necessary in view of what appeared to be past failures.

"What we have done the past four years under a Democratic national administration has been heroic, but many of the programs were necessary in view of what appeared to be past failures."

"What we have done the past four years under a Democratic national administration has been heroic, but many of the programs have been watered down by compromise," Tate said.

Tate blamed the "conservative Republican element" in Congress and bureaucratic red tape in Washington for cities not receiving the full potential from Democratic programs.

Both Tate and Barr called for direct aid from the federal government to the cities without going through the state capital. U. S. Rep. Fred B. Rooney of Bethlehem said he did not believe Congress would approve direct grants.

Milton Shapp, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for governor in 1968, told the subcommittee that, in his view, the war in Vietnam was deterring this country from a more important commitment to its cities.

"I have grave doubts about what we will really win even if we could win the war in Vietnam, but...if we fail to win the battle here in our cities, we will lose our American way of life and with it the civil freedoms that have made this nation great," the Philadelphia businessman said.

Shapp, a supporter of Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota for the Democratic presidential nomination, said Vietnam has become a curse, not a course of action for the United States. He called for a U.S. troop withdrawal as quickly as possible.

Crucible Steel Hikes Prices On Tool Steel

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Crucible Steel Corp. raised prices on 20 tool steels Thursday and said it might raise the rest of the line later on.

The higher prices start Aug. 20. The company said the increases are "necessary to partially offset increased manufacturing costs."

The boards of directors of Crucible and Colt Industries Inc., also met Thursday and approved a merger. Sept. 30 was set as the date for simultaneous special shareholders' meetings to give final approval.

Colt already owns 23 per cent of the 4.3 million shares of Crucible. The two will be consolidated into a new Delaware corporation called Colt Industries Inc.

Crucible will be operated under its present management as a wholly owned subsidiary.

Crucible, a large specialty steel producer, also declared a dividend of 30 cents a share to shareholders of Sept. 16.

Contractor Receives Certificate For Exceptional Safety Record

The entire work-force of Hunkin-Conkey Construction Company, prime contractors for construction of the Seneca Power Project at the Kinzua Dam, are gratified over receiving a Certificate of Merit from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for their exceptional 1967 safety record.

Compared with the American standard method of recording and measuring work injury experience, the Seneca project has a safety record far better than the national average for its type of operation, explains safety director James Burns, of Hunkin-Conkey.

During the past year the project has won a number of other safety awards.

To date, at the Seneca Project, Hunkin-Conkey employees have worked 1,000,988 man hours with a 1968 accident frequency of only 6.2 per million man hours. "This excellent safety record can be attributed to safety education, constant vigilance and good cooperation between workmen and the supervisory staff, as well as between unions and management," Burns observes.

The Seneca Power Plant is a pump-storage hydro-electric generating plant jointly owned, and being built by the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Company and the Pennsylvania Electric Company, two of America's investor-owned tax-paying electric utility companies.

POWER PLANT ASSEMBLY PROGRESSES

On Thursday the upper bracket was set in place on the No. 3 Unit of the new Seneca Power Plant being constructed at the Kinzua Dam. This is the first unit that will be completed. Being lowered into place in the picture is the part of the generator assembly above the rotor field. Later, on top of this bracket, will be placed the control head for the turbine blade and permanent magnet generator and field coil. Prime contractors for the project, Hunkin-Conkey Construction Company, Cleveland, have earned an enviable safety record on this job, which this week won recognition from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, with a Certificate of Merit. (Photo by Mansfield)

Two New York State Men Injured In One-Car Crash on Route 69

Two New York State men were injured in a one-car crash which occurred at 2:40 a.m. Thursday on Route 69, four miles north of Warren.

Admitted to Warren General Hospital with a possible broken nose, numerous contusions and abrasions was Michael L. Wilson, 21, of 32 Smith St., Celoron, N.Y., driver of the 1968 Chevrolet coupe involved in the accident.

A passenger, Calvin Bruce Olson, 20, of 202 McKinley Ave., Jamestown, was admitted to Jamestown General Hospital with a dislocated right ankle, contusions and abrasions.

State police trooper Mark Golomb of the Warren substation, investigating officer, stated the car, operated by Wilson, was traveling south at an excessive rate of speed when it went out of control, crossed the center lane and traveled 200 feet in the northbound lane before crossing the center lane again and slamming into a 14 foot section of bridge railing over Jackson Run.

Golomb stated the vehicle then slid sideways down the highway for another 100 feet before coming to rest in the northbound lane.

Damage to the car was listed as $3,500 or total and $3,000 damage to the bridge.

Trooper Myron Fernstrom was called to the scene of a three-car accident at 7 a.m. Thursday at the intersection of Miller Hill road and Route 69.

Police said a car driven by Robert W. MacLees, 17, of 662 Miller Hill rd., failed to yield the right of way from Miller Hill rd. and pulled into the path of cars operated by Lewis Williams, Lander road, Sugar Grove and Harold O. Carlson, Pleasant street, Sugar Grove, both traveling south on Route 69.

Total damage was estimated at $500.

Rescued 16-Year-Old Climber Wants to Eat . . . Eat . . . Eat

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A gaunt 16-year-old boy, his loosely hanging plaid shirt and green jacket clearly revealing the loss of 30 pounds, arrived home Thursday from Denver. One of the first things he wanted to do was eat.

The youth, William G. Berlinger 3rd, was found Tuesday after being lost for two weeks in the Rocky Mountains west of Denver where he had been at summer camp.

With him Thursday when he stepped off an airplane were two persons in heavy hiking shoes and outdoor clothing: his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. William Berlinger Jr., of suburban Rosemont. The parents had gone to Colorado to join in the search for their son. Berlinger is a partner in a Philadelphia investment banking firm.

William, a quiet, studious-looking boy, seemed embarrassed by all the attention. Promising to take first things first, he said, "I'm going to eat, and eat and eat."

Waiting for the Berlingers at the airport were the boy's sister, Connie Berlinger, 20, a student at Wells College, Aurora, N.Y., and an aunt, Dorothy Macmeekin. Both ran from the waiting room and embraced the Berlingers at the plane.

"It's just a dream come true," Mrs. Berlinger said.

Young Berlinger said he apparently took a wrong path and became lost on the slope of 14,005-foot Mount of the Holy Ghost while carrying supplies to a hiking encampment.

"I kept moving around, but tried to stay in the same general area," Berlinger said. "I figured I'd be found, I figured the helicopters I saw were looking for me. I admit, though, that at the time doubts entered my head."

He said he conserved the supplies he had—eight oranges, a carton of chocolate bars, two pounds of cheese, two cans of brown bread and two sticks of beef jerky—and supplemented them with mushrooms, watercress and berries.

Berlinger had two bites of bread left when a ground search party found him as he started up the mountain, hoping to reach an open spot on the slope from which he could signal the helicopters.

Berlinger said he had a poncho for protection against frequent rains. Temperatures at night dipped into the 30s, he said, but couldn't light a fire because his matches were wet.

He said at night he dreamed of being found: "I dreamed my camp director had found me, I would ask him 'Are you going to take me out?' and he'd say, 'Not now, Bill. I'll be back for you later.'"

His father said it was his son's second summer at the camp.

"They are such wonderful people out there," said the father in expressing his gratitude to the volunteers who searched for his son. "They never gave up. They gave us everything: their time and their equipment, and they gave us back our son."

The Berlingers have two other children: John, 13, at a camp in New Hampshire, and Ann, 22, a Smith College student who is in Europe.

REUNITED WITH PARENTS

Bill Berlinger Jr., 16, of Philadelphia is reunited with his parents after being lost in the mountains in Colorado since July 31. Berlinger was attempting to climb Holy Ghost Mountain when he became lost. He lost 30 pounds during his two-week ordeal.

Committee Recommendations Acted On At Pleasantville

In its second day of deliberations the Oil City Annual Conference of the Free Methodist Church acted upon the recommendations of the special committee set up to study conference administration, and took definite steps to centralize and coordinate the administrative functions of the conference.

As a result of this historic action, conference affairs will now be administered by two conference superintendents rather than three area superintendents as in former years. The conference also initiated plans to establish a central headquarters as a base of operations for the superintendents. In subsequent action, the Rev. George P. Oglesby of Titusville and the Rev. Floyd J. Taylor of Port Allegany were elected to the superintendency and will serve a one-year term in this highest elected office in the conference.

The missionary address was delivered last evening at 8 by Mrs. James Hudson Taylor, Sr., Missionary to China and Formosa.

This is the seventeenth annual session of the conference which convened at Pleasantville campground with 68 ministers and 60 delegates in attendance.

Elected to the stationing committee and the Nominating committee were Frank Hendrickson of Youngsville, Richard Roggenbaum of Bradford and George Paine of Clarion, with the bishop, Dr. Boyd, and the area superintendents, the Reverends George Oglesby of Titusville, Floyd J. Taylor of Port Allegany and George G. Saylor of Philipsburg.

Named to the nominating committee are the Reverends J.W. Grant of Titusville, Elmer Reagle of Coudersport, Stacey Barr of Clearfield, James Lyons of Sharon, A.C. Spencer of Brookville and Mark Williams of Union City. Lay members elected to committee are W.A. Farringer of Oil City, Robert Robson of Eldred, Wilbur Walk of Tyrone, Harold Fox of Ellwood City, Richard Schaffner of DuBois-Brookway and Ronald Tovey of Erie.

Nine retired ministers were present to give their reports. The Rev. H.C. Jacobs, reporting as pastor of the Franklin Free Methodist Church, announced his retirement from the active ministry, effective at the close of this conference.

SOUP ON THE ROCKS: Four condensed beef broth, straight from the can over ice cubes. Season with a dash of aromatic bitters or Worcestershire sauce, if desired. Garnish with a slice of lemon or lime. One can serves 3 to 4.

Hints From Heloise Cruse

DEAR FOLKS:
Please... when you open a flip-top metal can while on a picnic or at the beach, DON'T throw the flip part on the ground.

Little kiddies running through the park barefoot, or playing in the sand, can get real deep cuts from these tops. Not only that, but they may also require a tetanus shot.

A good idea would be to save one beverage can and put the flip-tops inside of it. This way, nobody could get cut.

Much better for you to be safe than for some sweet little child to be sorry.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
After many years of uncomfortable sewing, I have found the answer—a secretary's chair!

I can lean back and stretch my back and also wheel over to grab that pair of scissors, thread or what have you that is usually out of reach.

And my new chair also wheels under my machine very nicely when not in use. The back rest and height of the seat are both adjustable.

Rhea McAllister

DEAR HELOISE:
My husband uses a small piece of nylon net to hold a little slice of apple in his tobacco humidor.

The moisture keeps his tobacco moist, plus the fact that a very pleasant odor results when he smokes.

Every now and then he rinses the net, puts in a fresh slice of apple and replaces it in the can.

Mr. B. Martin

DEAR HELOISE:
I wonder why on earth most bras are fastened in the back?

Smartly dressed women are conscious of any bulges elsewhere. So why have a lump in the middle of your back, when a front-fastened bra gives a nice smooth back and is so easy to put on?

Is it just an old habit which nobody really thought could be changed?

Trinity Church School Open To Children Of All Faiths

Community children throughout the area are invited to attend Vacation Church School sponsored by Trinity Memorial Episcopal Church, Aug. 19-30.

All children of any faith are welcome to share in this program of Christian Education, fun and fellowship, according to the Rev. Stephen Frampton, curate, who will be directing the program.

Registration is limited to children in first through eighth grades (this fall's classes).

Sessions will begin at 9 a.m. with a brief worship service in the church under the supervision of Mr. Frampton. They will be concluded at noon. Refreshments will be served midway through the morning.

For additional information, call Mr. Frampton at the church, 723-3360.

It would also be appreciated if parents whose children wish to attend the Vacation Church School would contact the church so that plans as to the number of children to be accommodated can be completed.

Parents are also asked to fill out the registration blank below and have the child present it Monday morning at the first session. Additional forms can be procured at the church. Again, Mr. Frampton emphasizes that all children are welcome, regardless of faith.

DEAR HELOISE:

When taking a cream pie away from home, I always had the problem of finding something to keep the meringue from getting torn up.

By sticking toothpicks around the top of my pie and then putting the pie in a plastic bag, my problem was solved.

DEAR HELOISE:
Know how I clean my plastic flowers and ivy? In the washing machine!

I throw them in with a little detergent and swish them around for about five minutes or so on the DELICATE cycle. Take 'em out and rinse them in the sink so they won't spin dry.

This is a simple way and gets my flowers much cleaner than washing them by hand.

Opening lead: Jack of ♦
Altho North put down an evenly distributed dummy with only three trumps for his partner's four-heart contract, South nevertheless managed to uncover a ruffing value that provided a valuable trick.

West opened the jack of diamonds, the queen was played from dummy and covered by East's king and South's ace. A small club was led at trick two and North's jack was successfully finessed.

Declarer drew two rounds of trumps next with the ace and king of hearts as both opponents followed suit. He then switched back to clubs, allowing the jack of hearts to remain at large for the time being. The ace of clubs was played and then a small club to the king in his hand.

East showed out on the third round of clubs; however, inasmuch as he was also out of trumps, he was obliged to take a harmless discard South now ruffed out the eight of clubs as West helplessly followed suit.

A spade was led from dummy and the king lost to West's ace. The ten of diamonds was cashed but South ruffed the next round, drew the last trump with the queen of hearts and then cheerfully conceded a spade trick at the end. In all, he lost two spades and one diamond.

If South had drawn all the trumps immediately, he would have been obliged to concede a club trick to West's queen when that suit fails to divide evenly. By leaving one trump in dummy while he tested the clubs, declarer gave himself an extra chance to cover the case where one opponent holds four clubs as well as three trumps.

It may be observed that, if the player with the doubleton club has the third heart, then there is no way to fulfill the contract.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, FOR FRIDAY, AUGUST 16, 1968

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Common sense and a philosophical outlook will help you through this somewhat mixed day. Don't disrupt your schedule to engage in frivolity. Gain ground through smart use of talents. TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—The position of Venus places you in a highly propitious spot for gains if you exercise your know-how and discretion. Stress accuracy and pay no heed to rumors.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Admonitions for this day: Avoid haste in both word and deed; don't start new programs without sufficient data; DO give careful thought to all long-range plans.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Do not become involved in the affairs of others and do be alert to those whose intentions may be on the unscrupulous side. In general, stick to usual routine.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Real satisfaction can be found in your own surroundings now. The confusions of the untried could prove disconcerting.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Take a few minutes to analyze situations, probabilities, possibilities. This will save much time later. An excellent day for making revisions, improvements in general.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Especially favored now: Domestic concerns, personal relationships generally. During the p.m. you may revive a worthwhile contact.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

L-DOPA AND PARKINSONISM
L-Dopa is the latest remedy for parkinsonism. The drug does not cure but offers improvement ranging from modest to dramatic. According to Dr. George C. Cotzias of the Brookhaven National Laboratory Medical Research center, there was less muscle weakness and rigidity along with a reduction in the tremor involving the hands and head. The good response continued so long as the product was administered. When the drug was stopped, symptoms returned.

Parkinsonism was called shaking palsy in the past because it often began with tremor of one or both hands. Involuntary shaking is worse some days than others and is more noticeable when the victim is sitting quietly. Tremor of the hands resembles the maneuver used by pharmacists decades ago in molding pills. They rolled them between the thumb and index finger to make them round and smooth.

Head nodding coexists. The victim seems to be staring because his facial expression is frozen. Rigidity also is distressing because the muscles are stiff and uncontrollable. It is difficult to walk, rise from a chair, use the hands or turn over in bed. Staying active lessens much of the stiffness.

Unused muscles tend to become stiffer and weaker. This is why the victim should work as long as possible. Fatigue is common because some of these older men and women have difficulty getting about. But despite this, doing for one's self is important, because it helps avoid dependency. Friends and family should offer assistance in areas where it counts and is needed.

We have many drugs to reduce tremor and muscle rigidity. L-dopa is an adjunct to these products. There also is a brain operation that is beneficial, especially SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—Mild planetary influences will make this a more or less average day. But YOU could improve it considerably with a little extra effort and verve. Keep trying.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Especially favored now: Scholars, lawyers, teachers, home-makers. Great happiness may be found in intellectual pursuits. A favorable time for taking action on postponed matters.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—If asked to take on extra responsibility and it will not really interfere with your duties or plans, do so quickly: It may make the difference between success and a stalemate for the person who asks.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Your bright readiness to swing into line, with whatever is apropos for this day, can dent a previously hard surface of refusal and melt opposition without embarrassment.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—A good day for hurdling obstacles which may have stymied you in the past; for skirting impasses and undesirable situations. A good friend might help you.

YOU BORN TODAY have an especial appreciation of life, of the grandness of living, love in its highest sense. Guide your feelings carefully, follow thoughtful precepts, make the best use of your talents and vitality. You have a magnetic personality and much pride-line if controlled. You excel as executive, explorer, salesman, banker, poet, art critic. Birthdate of: Jean de la Bruyere, French author.

when the disease is in the early stages.
TOMORROW: The New Nose.
Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

LONG STANDING HEPATITIS
R. A. writes: Could hepatitis last five months?

REPLY
Yes, and for an even longer period. Hepatitis comes in many packages. In some instances, inflammation of the liver is so slight, symptoms may be overlooked. Others have a prolonged illness and on rare occasions hepatitis is so serious the victim fails to recover. ALCOHOL AND CHOLESTEROL

A. F. E. writes: Do alcoholic beverages produce more cholesterol in the body?

REPLY
No. Alcohol provides "empty" calories which furnish quick energy but nothing else. The empty calories replace those derived from food, which in turn are converted into fats and cholesterol. Alcohol and pressure

J. M. writes: Can you please tell me if wine and beer are bad for high blood pressure?

REPLY
The effect of alcohol on the blood pressure is an individual problem. For some, booze raises the level; in others, nothing happens or pressure is reduced. On the other hand, if these libations bring on obesity, the tension usually goes up.

OVERWORKED HEART
R. RM writes: I am 52 years old and weigh 220 pounds. What causes an enlarged heart?

REPLY
The heart is overworked because of high blood pressure or leaky valves, or perhaps the millions of extra miles of capillaries needed to carry blood to the excess blubber.

Big Turnout for Historical Tour

Some 65 enthusiastic members of the Warren County Historical Society journeyed to Tidioute Sunday, Aug. 4, to view the remains of Tidioute in its heyday. The group assembled near the flowing well marker across the river where we gave them a thumb nail sketch of the route of the tour. Also we pointed out some of the famous old landmarks of the town, the Grandin brick building, which certainly looks more impressive at a distance than it does from Main st., and also the old Grettenberger Machine shop and the site of the old Shaw House, oldest hotel in Tidioute.

Here too, the group had an opportunity to note the thickly settled area along the river where once only the Pat Cullen farm was located. It was in this same area that the Seneca Indians had their village and gave Tidioute its name. Originally it was called Tidioute or "point of land" which was Tidioute island, just below the bridge where the Delawares later built their village. After viewing the marker of the first flowing well in the WORLD, we crossed the river and made our first stop at the old depot. Here it was possible to go inside and see the sorry state of this old landmark and consider the possibility of it becoming a museum for Tidioute. Here we asked officers of the Historical Society if it would be possible to get its help to promote the museum. We were told that it was up to the residents of Tidioute to realize the potential of a museum and to sponsor a drive to have the depot restored and filled with our collections of early Tidioute. There is space also to set up booths for the sale of copies of memorabilia and artifacts for artists, whittlers and other handicrafters.

From the depot we proceeded to the steps of the Presbyterian Church where we pointed out the first frame house built by Richard Arters in 1824, now owned by the Robert Schwab family. It was possible to locate a number of early homes in a two block area from Elk to McGuire Run on Main st., and most of First st. in the same area.

Most of the homes were mentioned in last week's story, but omitted were the Pequigundus, then by the Bucklin family. The Charles Sage home was built by J. L. Grandin and was built in the late 1800's for Newton Hanchett early hotel owner and burgess.

The house just east of the library was the early home of M. M. Butler, A daughter of this family graduated in the class of 1900 here. Z. M. Jones lived on the corner where the present Earl Sundell home is situated. The Arthur Kinghome was first occupied by R.C. Scott who built the brick building, former location of the post office.

We were happy to have Mrs. Barbara Baldwin DeFrees on the tour since her family at one time lived in this same house. Her father ran the second cutlery shop located in the old Union School after the first Cutlery moved to Bradford. Barbara says she remembers that there was one room upstairs which they never entered as it was supposed to be the haunted room. With Barbara was a Miss Kennedy who at one time taught in the grades here. The corner house at Economy and Main now owned by Mrs. Bible was the home of a Mrs. J. A. Wetlie around 1874. The early owner of the Charles Coughlin home was a J. Shaw who owned the lot now occupied by the Library.

Carbone once more, we drove up Main to Church st. location of the second Methodist Church. Here we pointed out the former store of Louis Bourquin who owned it at the early age of 19 years. It was a complete general store stocking furniture, groceries, hardware and clothing. But for those of us who attended school at that time, Bourquin was "THE CANDY STORE" to us. We were fortunate to have Justin Bourquin, one of the two remaining sons, on the tour because he could add many interesting facts about early Tidioute where he grew up. He now resides in Youngsville.

At the school, Barbara Baldwin DeFrees named all of her grade school teachers, Mrs. Gertrude Magill, Miss Holcomb, Miss Inez Hyatt, Mrs. Helen Scudder and Mrs. Edna Averill Swanson. Francis Gill was principal at that time.

Our next stop was the Tidioute cemetery with its well groomed grass and many blooming flowers. Of special interest to the group here, were the life-size granite statue of Dr. James Acomb in majors uniform of the now occupied by the Free Methodist Church. Then proceeded on Jefferson st. to the Old Cemetery. This was the most embarrassing stop of the tour. After a slippery walk on a laurel covered lane we had to enter the cemetery through a small break in the old rusted fence and struggle through briars, weeds and a thick growth of brush to point out the three flags marking our Revolutionary War Heroes buried there. They were Benjamin Huff who died in 1828 at the age of 81, Arthur Magill, who died in 1847 at 80 years and James Magee born in 1738, died in 1882 aged 89. He was later moved to the present Tidioute cemetery.

Richard Arters, father of Thomas Arters, who came here in 1806 was born in 1758 and died at age 85 in 1843. Many of the group had cameras but were unable to take pictures because of the state of the markers. Several made suggestions as to ways of clearing the cemetery so it would be a thing of beauty and a show place for visitors instead of a disgrace to our early settlers.

Our next stop was the Hunter estate where we met Terry Ulf, son of Dorothy Hunter and great grandson of Jahu Hunter who built the large corner mansion. Here we were able to tour the grounds. Then we stopped at the Hunter Memorial School given to Tidioute by Mrs. Jahu (Margaret) Magee Hunter and Mrs. Livingston L. (Lillian Acomb) Hunter in memory of their husbands.

Here we pointed out the former store of Louis Bourquin who owned it at the early age of 19 years. It was a complete general store stocking furniture, groceries, hardware and clothing. Civil War, the Soldiers monument erected in 1885 by the Col. George A. Cobham Post 311 Grand Army of the Republic with money donated by Tidioute citizens. Close by was the grave of John R. Gilfillen, 1840 to 1933 who died at the age of 93. All but our young children remember his resonant voice giving forth the Gettysburg Address each Memorial Day until shortly before his death.

Many of the early Grandin family rest by the Grandin monuments. First was Samuel the father of them all born in 1800 and died in 1888 at the age of 88 years. His son William J. Grandin Sr. lies with most of his family near by, as does Captain Henry Harrison Cummings 1840 - 1913, pioneer, capitalist, and president of the Tidioute school board for 33 years.

Captain Robert Taggart's marker was pointed out as one of our early oil men who at one time was President of the Tidioute-Warren Oil Co.

Spokesman for the tour from the historical society was Dr. Wm. Cashman who is well steeped in the early history of Warren Co. and has a large collection of pictures of that era.

Mrs. Edith Ramsey was with us and is remembered as one who has perhaps trod more of our early historical ground than anyone else in the county. She was the first to crawl through the undergrowth of our old cemetery and get a list of names on the markers. She said some of the stones had been carelessly broken and many had to be patched together to get the names and dates. Since then James King has been able to add 25 or more names to Mrs. Ramsey's list.

We had planned to visit the site of the Grandin well but found on Saturday that part of the road was under water and that there was no way to detour around it.

Commissioner Turns Down Job

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Police Commissioner Frank L. Rizzo said Thursday he turned down the job as safety director of the city of Trenton, N. J. Rizzo said Mayor Carmen J. Armenti telephoned him Wednesday and offered the job. How much does the job pay? "I asked Rizzo. He said Armenti replied, "you name it." Rizzo said he mentioned $40,000 a year and the mayor replied, "you got it."

Rizzo declined it, however, to stay on as head of the Philadelphia police force at $29,000 yearly.

TIDIOUTE

Garden Club to Hear Historian

W. Floyd Clinger of Warren, editor of "Stepping Stones", quarterly magazine of the Warren County Historical Society is to be the speaker at the Tues., Aug. 27th meeting of the Tidioute Garden Club. Clinger, who grew up and attended Tidioute schools will relate early historical facts and events of Tidioute which he has collected in his many years of research and readings of this area. It is hoped that the club will have an open meeting so that Clinger's talk may be heard by the many persons who are interested in the early history of Tidioute.

Mrs. Charles Weir will have an exhibit of gladiolus, flower of the month. Hosts are to be Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Erickson of Endeavor and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weir.

In Our Time

WHY CORN ROOTWORM CONTROL?

UNLESS ROOTWORM LARVAE ARE CONTROLLED AS THEY HATCH IN INFESTED SOIL THEY BEGIN TO FEED ON THE ROOTS OF YOUNG PLANTS. WHEN THESE ANCHOR ROOTS ARE CUT AWAY THE PLANT WILL FALL DURING WIND OR RAIN STORMS.

NOT ONLY DOES MECHANICAL PICKING OF EARS FROM "LODGED" CORN ROWS BECOME NEXT TO IMPOSSIBLE... IF LEFT ALONE, THE LARVAE WILL MATURE INTO ADULT BEETLES THAT FEED ON CORN SILK TO CUT POLLINATION.

A PROFITABLE PRACTICE IS TO APPLY A BAND OF THIMET 15-G IN THE FURROW AT PLANTING TIME WITH A GRANULAR APPLICATOR.

LOSS COULD RUN INTO BILLIONS OF DOLLARS

Sizable Amount of Defense Procurement Budget Buys Nothing

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
And
JEAN HELLER
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department's $45 billion-a-year procurement budget pays for a vast array of hardware and services, but a sizable portion of it buys nothing.

It's swallowed up by duplication, by human error and by faulty management—some of it inevitable in an organization the size of the Pentagon, where 5,500 people are involved in military procurement alone.

Whatever the cause, this loss—never precisely calculated—could well run into billions of dollars.

This is shown in Associated Press study of procurement.

Defense officials emphasize that price competition reduces costs by an average of 25 per cent. But in most years no more than 14 per cent of Pentagon buying is based on competitive bidding.

The Defense Department owns billions of dollars worth of industrial equipment. Much of it is uneeded, according to the U. S. General Accounting Office.

Last year, the Pentagon lost $180 million, according to the General Services Administration, by acquiring new computer equipment even as computers it already owned or leased stood idle more than two million hours. The GSA is the chief purchasing agent for the government.

The Pentagon spends $7 billion a year on research and development contracts that usually run more than double the original cost estimates.

The Defense Department insists it has adequate protection against profiteering by private contractors yet billions of dollars in annual purchases are not subject to any independent review for overpricing.

The Armed Services procurement regulations—ASPR—fill several hundred volumes. New regulations and revisions of old rules are issued frequently in a constant campaign to close loopholes.

For the 4,000 civilian and 1,500 military personnel who work in defense procurement, the ASPRs theoretically guide every step toward the purchase of any item. Critics of the Pentagon claim few are followed consistently.

"The Defense Department issues weak regulations and then administers them as though they didn't exist," says Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., whose Joint Economic Committee condemned procurement practices after a recent examination of defense buying.

Former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara touched on procurement problems in his last budget statement to Congress, just before he resigned early this year. Speaking of procurement personnel, he said:

"How to motivate these people to do their job more efficiently, and how to determine whether they do so, has always been one of the most difficult and elusive problems."

Observing that private industry is disciplined by the profit and loss statement, he added: "There is no such built-in incentive for efficiency and economy in the operating environment of the Defense Department."

A major consideration when Congress drafted the first procurement regulations in 1947 was to put Defense Department buying on a competitive basis.

Pentagon officials themselves have repeatedly told congressional committees that price competition produced savings averaging 25 per cent.

Yet Defense Department records show that in most years no more than 14 per cent of military buying is based on price competition.

About 30 per cent of the Pentagon's business falls into a grey area called "competitive negotiated contracts," transactions in which price may or may not be a factor.

The other 55 per cent involves no competition of any sort, and this business includes some of the Pentagon's very largest contracts. Once the Pentagon chooses a company to design a weapons system, it almost always returns to the designer to award a non-competitive contract to produce the equipment.

Regulations governing defense procurement say price competition should be the rule, but there are exceptions—17 of them—and they are so broad that they have become the rule instead of the exceptions.

The 25 per cent figure was first reported to Congress in 1965, by McNamara, when a trend toward competitive bidding reached a peak of 17.6 per cent for that fiscal year.

That trend was reversed a year later when the Vietnam war buildup began.

In 1966, it dropped to 14.2 per cent, then to 13.4 per cent in 1967. For the first nine months of fiscal 1968, the figure was down again, to 11.5 per cent.

A major factor in the reversal is military assessments of urgent war zone requirements. "Urgent need" is one of the 17 exceptions that permit non-competitive procurement.

Once a determination of "urgent need" is made, price can be erased as a factor.

Such was the case last April 19 when the Army awarded two "competitive negotiated contracts" for production of M16 rifles.

Six months earlier, the Defense Department had solicited price estimates from four manufacturers, but on March 29, the four companies received the following notice from the Department of the Army:

"As a result of increased urgency to supply the maximum number of rifles at the earliest possible date with minimum risks of production interruption, the object of this procurement is changed to select those two sources which will afford to the government the highest degree of confidence in their ability in meeting or exceeding the accelerated schedule set forth below while maintaining good quality and provide the government the strongest mobilization base."

After the contracts were awarded, members of a special House subcommittee demanded to know why one went to General Motors even though its price was $20 million higher than two firms that lost out.

The Army replied that there was an urgent need to obtain a large number of M16 rifles as soon as possible to equip South Vietnamese regular and popular forces.

Or as Robert A. Brooks, assistant secretary of the Army for procurement, explained it to the subcommittee on May 13:

"Accelerated delivery schedules to meet increased requirements was our objective. We switched from a price competitive approach to one of selecting two producers judged most capable of manufacturing rifles on an accelerated basis."

Had the Army awarded the M16 contracts on the basis of price, they would have gone to Maremont Corp., and Cadillac-Gage for about $36 million each. Award of the contracts to General Motors' Hydra-matic Division, for $56 million, and to Harrington & Richardson, for $42 million, was protested to the General Accounting Office which upheld their legality while noting that "we are in no position to substitute our judgment for that of the Army in evaluating the technical ability and qualifications of the four companies who made technical proposals."

In other words, the GAO had no grounds for a challenge on price because the Army's determination that an "urgent need" existed legally justified awarding the contracts solely on ability to produce.

Another common exception to the rule of competitive bidding in defense buying is "sole source of supply."

If only one firm manufactures a particular item, the government has little choice other than to deal with that company. Because a St. Louis company was the Navy's sole source for its rocket launchers the Pentagon found itself in the position of having awarded the company a $13.9 million contract just two weeks before the firm was charged with creating phantom suppliers and receiving kickbacks on previous contracts of more than $47 million.

On July 23, the Associated Press disclosed that the Navy had awarded the contract even though the company was then involved in a federal grand jury investigation.

On Aug. 7, the indictment was returned against Chromcraft Corp., and Alisco, Inc., with which Chromcraft merged in 1966, and four individuals.

The Navy said the charges would have no effect on the new contract, awarded to Alisco's Techfab Division. The reason: the rocket launchers are a "proprietary item" of Techfab, the ing in 1962, the Navy awarded 10 non-competitive contracts worth $2,087,477 to Tabet Manufacturing Co., of Norfolk, Va., as sole source for the device. Prices paid ranged as high as $197 each for a quantity of 200 bought in September, 1966, to as low as $113.59 each for 6,250 purchased in March 1967.

When the Navy prepared to award an 11th noncompetitive contract to Tabet, another firm notified the Navy Electronics Supply Office at Great Lakes, Ill., that it wanted to bid on the item. It asked for a technical manual giving manufacturing specifications.

Officials at Great Lakes replied with a telegram refusing to supply the technical manual on the ground it "is not part of the necessary specifications" and "further such manual is not readily available."

But when the director of the Navy publication and printing service in Washington heard about the case he made manuals available to all interested parties.

Four bids were received and the price of the switch dropped $33.49 to $80.10 each. Low bidder at that price? Tabet Manufacturing Co.
